The School Question

Shall the Port Norris High School be kept open or shall it be closed is a question now troubling the Board of Education of Commercial Township and the final answer to the question will affect every taxpayer in the township and vitally affect those whose tax bills are in the larger brackets.

A public meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, July 20, when taxpayers will be given an opportunity to express their views on the entire matter. The Board of Education would like to hear a full expression of opinion and they, in turn, will welcome an opportunity to give the taxpayers some idea of what the school board is up against in meeting the demands being made by the State in school matters.

From a standpoint of sentiment and pride there is little doubt but what the citizens in general favor a retention of the school. There is no doubt but what many, particularly parents, do not favor bus transportation to schools located beyond the borders of the small towns in the townships where schools are now located. There is the matter of employment kept within the township and the business derived from the teachers employed.

These and many other arguments are advanced by those who favor keeping the Port Norris High School open.

The other side is one of cold facts and figures. As the expense of keeping the schools open has increased with every new demand made by the State, the tax receipts in the

Prominent Cedarville Man Died On Way To Church

Another sudden death occurred here on Sunday when William Hall was stricken while on his way to church and passed away before aid could be summoned. Mr. Hall has been janitor of the Methodist church for a number of years and was also a faithful member. He was on his way over to church when taken with a heart attack falling in the street almost opposite the church. Harry Godown saw him fall and went to his assistance. Dr. Lore was summoned but pronounced him dead. Mrs. Hall was called from church and the sad news broken to her. He was removed to Frank Tongue's morgue until the facts of the death were inquired into by the coroner. Mr. Hall was an upright citizen favorably liked by his fellow men. He is survived by a widow, one daughter Mrs. Jesse Blizard of Haleyville and one son Kenneth who with his wife resides at home. To these much sympathy is extended in this sad time.

U. S. Army Seeking Recruits For August

The U. S. Army is seeking young men for foreign and domestic service it was announced by Sergeant George P. Miller, in charge of the Bridgeton Recruiting Station. The requirements for applicants are a good physique and character with a common school education.

The transport "Republic" will leave New York August 4th, stopping at Panama, San Francisco, arriving at Hawaii, September, 4th.

Recent Army enlistments at this station were made for the follow-branches and stations Edwin N. Bows, and James L. Krauss, of Carneys Point, for Ordinance Dept., Philippine Islands, and Coast Artillery Props, Hawaii, Frank F. Asselta, of Newfield, and Lewis W. White, of Salem, for Coast Artillery Corps, Hawaii.

township have declined so that the Township Committee has been called upon to borrow continuously to pay the running expenses of the local schools and other township expenses as well.

The teachers, some years ago, voluntarily surrendered a part of their pay to aid the township and they now feel the time has come for their salaries to be restored to former level. Other school systems have restored the pay cuts and local teachers feel that theirs should follow.

The question before the public hearing on July 20 and one which must be definitely decided by the Board of Education is a serious one to the community and deserves the deep consideration of every resident.

Letter From Jack Carney at Scout Jamboree

Scout Jack Carney, of Troop #1, Port Norris, is in Washington attending the National Boy Scout Jamboree. Carney, in letters to his parents, says:

We arrived at Pennsgrove with Mr. Strang at 9:30 A. M. (We didn't have any blowouts). We had plenty of time to wait for the other boys. We left on the ferry at 11 A. M., then from the ferry to the courthouse at Wilmington by bus, and waited around for the governor of Delaware. Finally he came and some people took pictures of him. When we lined up the governor and some city officials gave speeches about scouting. All this time, newspapermen were taking pictures of us. We formed a parade with the Wilmington scouts, who were in the pictures with us, and marched to the station. We waited about an hour for the train. It was a streamlined electric Pennsylvania train. It went very fast and was comfortable. We arrived at Baltimore at 3:15 P. M., but made no stop. Most of the way through Baltimore was in tunnels.

Arrived at Washington at Union Station. It is very large. We went to the camp by bus. As we got in the bus it started to rain and by the time we reached camp it was pouring. There was a large puddle right in the way. Some of the boys put their bathing suits on and waded into the trading post. After a while it stopped raining and we went to our camp site and started to pitch the tents. George Whipple, Roland Strang, Sam Schwarzman and I were sleeping together.

We had a good supper. In fact, all of the meals are very good. We get cereal, 1 pint of milk and some kind of dessert in the morning. For lunch we have cold meat, lemonade, oranges and eggs. For dinner we get hot meals (roast beef and chicken), or hash and a pint of milk.

We are camped right across the Potomac. When we got to camp they changed us to Standard Time. I didn't sleep well the first night. It rained all day Sunday, but we went to the Washington monument. I walked to the top. There are 989 steps. It looks like a dungeon while you are going up. There are no windows and the walls are stone. I always thought that the windows were large enough for about five persons to line up and look through, but the windows are about 2 feet by 2 1/2 feet. About two fellows could look through at the same time comfortably. There are bars across each window and here isn't much room to move about. Look out one side and you see the Capitol, another the Lincoln Memorial, and another the Arena.

Monday morning it was raining, but it cleared off about noon. In the afternoon we went to Lee's mansion and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. There is a guard that walks continuously up and down before the tomb. He has a rubber mat to walk on He cannot talk to spectators. He has a small tent at each end of the mat He marches to one end and stands at attention for about 5 seconds. Then another right face

Bacon Won Suit With Federal Reserve Bank

R. C. Bacon successfully defended an action brought against him by the Federal Reserve Bank on a note discounted with the 1st National Bank, Port Norris. The trial was held last Thursday in Bridgeton before Judge LaRoy Loder sitting with a jury. The action was non-suited by the judge without permitting it to go to the jury. Warren C. Lummis Jr. appeared for Mr. Bacon.

Wene Fighting For Waterway Improv'ts

Congressman Elmer H. Wene, member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee who has been fighting for the many improvements requested by his constituents, particularly with reference to inland waterways, says he is pleased over the recent approval by the House of the omnibus rivers and harbors bill, since it includes the authorization for improvements of the Cohansy River at Bridgeton, improvements of Barnegat Inlet, and the authorization of surveys in Atlantic, Cumberland and Cape May counties. He said, "A public hearing may be called any day by the War Department as soon as their preliminary information has been compiled for the dredging of Lakes Bay in Pleasantville."

Congressman Wene is very anxious to see these improvements completed for he feels that it will mean a great deal, not only to South Jersey, but to the Eastern coast line as well, being the water way route from Maine to Florida.

HOWARD BRADWAY

Howard Bradway died on Thursday last at Browns Mills, New Jersey. Mr. Bradway has been in poor health for the past two or three years, but had been able to continue working until a few weeks ago, and had been a patient at the sanatorium for only three weeks. Mr. Bradway was at one time in the contracting and building business and was the contractor in charge of the erection of the local High School building. He was a pioneer in the oyster-shucking business, and was manager of the Sanitary Oyster Company's plant for several years, later becoming manager of the Independent Oyster Company.

Mr. Bradway was born and brought up in Port Norris, being the son of the late John Bradway. His first wife, the former Miss Elizabeth Owens, died in January, 1920, leaving a little daughter, Genevieve. He later married Mrs. Margaret Lore, who survives with the daughter, Genevieve, and two step-daughters, Miss Eleanor Lore and Mrs. Lee Robinson. Funeral services were held at the residence last Sunday afternoon, and interment was made at Haleyville. The wife and family have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Then he marches down to the other end and does the same thing except he does a left face instead of right face. He doesn't look right or left.

Today we didn't go out of camp because of some dippy order. I am writing this letter in the mess tent while it is pouring outside. Tomorrow we go to a baseball game.

On June 30 (Wed) we went to the Smithsonian Institute, but we

Millville Man Was Speaker To Bible Class

Rev. Howard Johnson, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Millville, was the speaker at the July meeting of the Cumberland County Federation of Men's Bible Classes held in the Dividing Creek Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon. His subject was, "Is the America of Washington Passing?"

The speaker was introduced by George W. Robbins, new vice president of the South District who arranged Sunday afternoon's program.

After a short address by Hon. Samuel Iredell, former president of the federation, the group adopted a resolution protesting the passage of a bill now before Congress to erect in the city of Washington, D. C., a monument to the memory of Robert G. Ingersol, noted atheist of the preceding century.

There was a song service conducted by the Rev. Levi Sharp, of Heislerville, in the absence of the county song leader, Carlton Hughes and two vocal numbers by a male quartet from the host church, the vocal group including Boyd Garrison, Chester Locke, Amos Pepper, Sr., and Albert Cook with Mrs. Minnie Hahn as their accompanist. There was also music contributed by Ralph Holmes and Waldon Cox, both of Millville, the former playing the violin, the latter the piano.

Prayers were offered by the Rev. L. M. Thompson, pastor of the host church, and the Rev. Albert S. Wolstencroft, pastor of the Dividing Creek M. E. Church. Amos Pepper, Sr., deacon of the entertaining church read the Scripture lesson and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Ralph Carlisle, pastor of the Heislerville M. E. Church.

Rev. Sharp was in charge of the offering; Donald M. Perkins, County president, presided, and Balfour J. Bishop, county secretary conducted the roll-call. The Heislerville M. E. Church won the attendance banner and they were tied with the host church in numbers. The country churches contributed the major portion of the attendance the city churches being rather slimly represented. There was an attendance of visitors from Camden, Gloucester and Salem counties.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Howard Bradway and family wish to thank their many friends for use of cars, flowers sent and kindness shown during their recent bereavement.

"COME INTO THE KITCHEN"

TODAY the magical art of electricity is creating a picture of delightful changes in the modern kitchen. Gone are the hot stove, the dreary job of pot scouring, the drudgery of dish washing. With the art of electricity, the modern kitchen adopts new principles of efficiency, of convenience, beauty and cleanliness.

The fast, accurate heat of today's electric range does its work without raising kitchen temperatures—without soot or smoke. The electric refrigerator is a daily joy to use and a constant economizer of the family budget. Electric power is tireless in the performance of laborious tasks and the delightful feature is that with our low rates the more you use the less it costs for each unit. Many households that we serve, having all-electric kitchens, are paying less than 2 cents a kilowatt-hour on the average.

Special music. All meetings open to the public.

WHERE TO TRADE

"I'd rather trade with an up-to-date, enterprising merchant than a conservative back-number any time," a friend of ours observed the other day.

"You usually get a better deal you get up-to-date merchandise—you get more careful service," he elaborated. We have given the matter some thought and have concluded that he is right and that there is a reason for this observation.

The enterprising merchant can offer better values, because he keeps his capital at work. He can offer up-to-date merchandise because he does not carry stock over from season to season. He is out for business and therefore must give better service to get it.

Incidentally he finds that advertising fits directly into his scheme of operations. It is the one medium by which he can tell the public about what he has to offer.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

ANY housewife who wishes to be especially economical in her food buying this week will use plenty of vegetables, fruits, cheese and eggs and use meat more for flavor than as a substantial food. Meats are higher while vegetables are much more plentiful. Many are cheap and most others very reasonable.

The fruit list is also lengthening; small fruits such as berries, currants and cherries are at the height of their season. Last week the melon family bowed only to potatoes in size of shipments, apricots, plums and peaches are reasonably priced and well distributed. Bananas and oranges are of course year round standbys. Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinner
Baked Stuffed Breast of Lamb
Browned Potatoes Green Beans
Bread and Butter
Cream Pie with Bananas
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Broiled Chicken
Scalloped Potatoes Green Peas
Bread and Butter
Cherry Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Melon Plate
Roast Spring Lamb Gravy
Buttered Beets
Cauliflower Hollandaise
Cucumber Salad
Rolls and Butter

Brazilian Recipes

Dear Club Members:

TODAY'S treasure hunt for national dishes of the countries of the world brings us to Brazil. Charming Mrs. Margareta de Andrade is our guide, and it is she who reveals a brand new kind of Vegetable Pudding.

"This is a recipe which has never been published either in Brazil or any other country, to my knowledge," confides Mrs. de Andrade. "I obtained the recipe in Sao Paulo from someone who had brought it from the interior of Minas. There, it was the favorite recipe of an old family cook, and I pass it on to you as one of the most delicious dishes I have ever eaten."

Turnips—Cabbage 1/2 cup grated
Spinach—Potatoes cheese
Pumpkin—Carrots 1 cup flour
(Other vegetables 1/2 onion—1 tomato may of course Parsley—1 tbsp.
be used, depend- sugar
ing on the sea- 2 tbsp. butter son of the year) 1/2 cup milk
3 eggs

Cut vegetables into small pieces and cook in enough water to cover. Add 1/2 an onion, 1 tomato and some parsley and 1 tbsp. sugar. When done, mash or strain through a strainer. Melt 2 tbsp. butter and add. Stir in 1/2 cup grated cheese, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup flour, beaten yolks of three eggs and beaten whites of three eggs. Pour this mixture into a well buttered baking form, preferably one with a round opening in center. Cover with buttered breadcrumbs and grated cheese and bake slowly until done. Turn out onto a platter, fill center with cauliflower or palmetto, and serve with a white sauce.

Douce De Lait (Sweet of Milk):
1 quart of milk Pinch of bicar-
1 lb. of sugar bonate

Bring to a boil and cook over a slow flame until the mixture thickens and color changes to a light caramel. Let cook. Serve as a dessert, accompanied by a slice of cheese. This is one of the most popular Brazilian desserts.

Milk Desserts For Children

MILK is one of the most important items in the diet of youngsters, containing, as it does, so many of the elements vital to growing bodies.

In most homes the sturdy glass milk bottle is an old friend and favorite. In some others, however, there are children who do not care for the flavor of milk—and then the wholesome fluid must be masqueraded in some tempting form if the young ones are to get the benefit of its healthfulness.

It is in such cases that the milk bottle joins hands with its other bottled friends — those glass containers of fruit and flavorings on your pantry shelf—to make tasty milk desserts. If your child is one of those who prefers his milk camouflaged... try these tasty milk dainties. You can have confidence in their purity because, packaged in sterile glass jars and bottles which may be re-sealed time and again, the original quality is preserved until the last morsel is gone.

Bavarian Cream

1/2 cup sugar
1 pint scalded milk
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint heavy cream
Salt

Soak gelatin in cold water until soft. Make a soft custard of the milk, egg-yolks, sugar and flavoring. Stir the softened gelatin into the hot custard. When gelatin has dissolved, strain and cool. Whip the cream and fold it in as the mixture congeals.

Maple Charlotte Russe

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup scalded milk
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup maple syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint heavy cream
Lady fingers

Follow directions for making Bavarian Cream. Line molds with lady fingers and fill with cream mixture. Chill, unmold and serve.

Fig Puff

1 cup cream
1 egg white
1 tablespoon grapefruit marmalade
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
Chopped figs
Maraschino cherries
Shredded almonds

Whip cream until thick. Beat egg white until stiff, then combine with cream and add sugar and marmalade. Stir chopped figs into the mixture until it becomes very thick. Pack in long stemmed glasses. Garnish with macaroon crumbs, maraschino cherries and shredded almonds.

and stands for another 5 seconds, didn't have long in there so we will go back again. In the afternoon we went to see Boston and Washington play a baseball game but we left the game because of rain. In the evenings we went to evening campfire. James E. West, Sec. Cummings, Theodore Roosevelt Jr. were some of the speakers. A group of scouts from Colorado gave an Indian war dance.

Yesterday was an open day and we were allowed to go wherever we wanted. Runner Whipple and Hendricks and I went out yesterday morning, as we started to thumb-a-ride a lady blew her horn, she was breaking in her new car and took us riding anywhere we were allowed to go wherever Hanines Point, saw the Anacostia Naval Air Station, War College drove about 20 miles down Mount Vernon Blvd. went through Alexandria and saw Christ Church where Washington worshiped, this church is still used. We went on to Mount Vernon, Mrs. Beebe gave us a dollar to pay our way if we didn't get in free. We got home just in time for dinner. In the afternoon we went to the foreign section to trade and get autographs I traded a lot of articles.

In the evening we went to the Palace Theatre to see "Captain's Courageous." It was a good show. Today we are practicing for a pageant tonight at the arena.

"Blazing Sixes," at Globe Theatre

Two years ago, Dick Foran had never fired a revolver. Now the Warner Bros. western star is one of the pistol shots in the movie colony.

Foran demonstrates his marksmanship in his latest western, "Blazing Sixes," which comes to the Globe Theatre on July 11.

Learning to shoot wasn't easy for Foran. Born in the east, and educated at Princeton University, he seldom saw a gun—much less used one.

When the Warner Bros. studio decided to put him in horse operas Foran bought two guns and started making daily visits to the police pistol range in Elysian Park in Los Angeles. The Los Angeles police, under professional tutors, are the champion shots of the United States.

Foran doesn't think he's so good yet, though he can hit a silver dollar thrown into the air if he shoots right handed. Left handed he can hit a tin can. With either hand he can knock the spots out of a playing card at fifty feet. And he's as quick on the draw as was William S. Hart, dean of western actors.

During the past year, Foran has learned to "fan" a gun. He has also learned to "spin" both guns at once, firing them as they revolve. He does all these things in "Blazing Sixes" as fast action

Magee Explains Reason of Delay For Car "Exams"

For the benefit of the many candidates for the positions of examiner and supervisor, testing division, State Motor Vehicle Department, who are anxious to know when the periodical examination of automobiles will commence, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arthur W. Magee last week issued a statement explaining the delay.

Commissioner Magee's statement follows:

"The delay in administering the motor vehicle inspection law may be accounted for, mainly, by the fact that until the appropriations bill was recently passed, this department had to rely upon its present overtaxed personnel to organize what may be termed a $1,000,000 business.

"When it was possible for us to do so, a survey was made of the entire State for the purpose of determining where the inspection stations should be located, giving consideration to the question of making it convenient for the majority of automobile owners. It was necessary to interview representatives from many municipalities desirous of obtaining an inspection station. After the survey had been completed it was necessary to make an inspection of all prospective sites and negotiate with owners about leases and the construction of buildings. Sites were selected in 28 municipalities and all leases have been approved with exception of one.

"In the matter of obtaining equipment to be used for inspection purposes, the only bid received was rejected, resulting in new specifications to be drafted, which, on account of many details, has taken considerable time to do the job thoroughly.

The new specifications have been advertised and bids were opened Tuesday.

Douglas MacLean Haunted by Film Shadows of Past

Shadows of Douglas MacLean's past continue to haunt him, since he established his organization at the R-K-O-Pathe studios in Culver City to produce a series of features for Grand National. It was at this same studio, then owned by Thomas H. Ince, that he made so many of the silent film successes in which he was starred years ago, among them "23 1/2 Hours Leave", the new version of which MacLean produced as the second feature of this series, following "Great Guy" with James Cagney.

When preparations for the production were being made, Waldron (Slats) Johnson, MacLean's veteran wardrobe man, presented the producer with a faded overseas hat bearing the name of "Douglas MacLean" in indelible ink on the band. It was part of the uniform worn by MacLean when he starred in the Ince film 17 years ago.

Waldron unearthed the relic in a dusty corner of the studio wardrobe, while checking up on some uniforms to be used in "23 1/2 Hours Leave", where it had passed through the various studio regimes, when the film lot had been sold in turn by Ince to DeMille then to Pathe and finally to R-K-O.

James Ellison, who plays Sergeant Gray, the role created by MacLean in the original production, in the Grand National version of "23 1/2 Hours Leave", which is scheduled at the Landis Theatre, Vineland, Sunday and Monday, insisted on wearing the old hat for luck and retained it as a souvenir, at the completion of the production.

Terry Walker, loaned to Grand National by Paramount especially for this production, plays opposite Ellison, as the General's lovely daughter, with Paul Harvey in the role of the General, and an exceptionally strong supporting cast. John G. Blystone directed.

Colbert Splendid In Sparkling New Parisian Comedy

"I Met Him in Paris," which brought Claudette Colbert, Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young the screen of the Grand Theatre Friday and Saturday, July 9 and 10 is a comedy as crisp and sparkling as the snows of the Swiss Alps, against which most of the action takes place.

Miss Colbert, in the role of a young American girl on a long-planned vacation in Europe, is given plenty of opportunity to display those comedy talents which she used so well in "It Happened One Night" and "The Bride Comes Home." In this new film, she has two leading men with whom to spar in conversational give-and-take. Not only is the dialogue keen and snappy, but the rough-and-tumble action and incidental byplay are equally mad and delirious. "I Met Him in Paris" is played with delicious freedom and wisecracking action.

As the story runs, Miss Colbert goes to Paris, where she runs into a couple of writers, also Yanks: Melvyn Douglas, a suave, man-of-the-world play-wright, and Robert Young, a playboy novelist. Their impetuous courtship for the brunette beauty takes the trio from Paris to St. Moritz, smartest of the Swiss winter sports centres, and then back to Paris again. In the strange romance, Miss Colbert's heart swings first to one, then to the other of her mad suitors, until she is forced to a showdown.

Every member of the cast, from the three principals down to the lowliest extra, turns in an outstanding performance. Wesley Ruggles' direction, as always, is tops, and the outdoor scenes, laid in the Alpine sports capital, are thrilling and beautiful. The story is a sparkling, and the three stars as brilliant, as the snows of St. Moritz.

Lyme, Conn.—The recent death fighting force in Toledo harbor, of Charles F. Whipple robbed painters of this artist colony of a favorite medal. Elinor Lathrop Sears had done many heads and full-length pictures of "Cal" in Bids will be received and publicly opened on Wednesday evening July 21, 1937 at the High School Building at 8:00 o'clock, new time.

Colbert Returns To Light Comedy Role In New Film

Back to the laugh division of the movies after a successful fling at serious historical drama, Claudette Colbert comes to the screen of the Levoy Theatre on Friday and Saturday in "I Met Him in Paris," a bright transatlantic comedy romance which features Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young.

Miss Colbert was last seen here in the heavy dramatic lead role of "Maid of Salem," the plot of which was suggested by the hysterical witchcraft scares of seventeenth-century New England.

In "I Met Him in Paris" Claudette returns to present-day roles and portrays an American working girl on a grand vacation in the French capital. Finding that romance knows no geographical limits, Claudette falls in love with is seen in a stunning array of outdoor sport fashions. The costumes she wears in the Paris scenes were specially designed for her by Travis Banton, and reflect the characteristic French influence.

Famous Dancing Team Have Role In New Western

Internationally reknowned as masters of eccentric dancing, Will and Gladys Ahearn display their famous brother and sister act in Gene Autry's latest Republic musical-western, "Git Along Little Dogies," coming July 10 to the Globe Theatre.

The Ahearns have toured all European countries, playing in England, Germany, Italy, Spain, and France, and can speak the language of all lands in which they have played.

In addition to headlining vaudeville shows in all key cities of the United States, the Ahearns have appeared in such shows as Dillingham's "Sidewalks of New York," Ziegfeld's "Simple Simon," Schwab and Mandell's "Good News," Earl Carroll's "Music Box Review," and many other distinguished productions.

Will has written several pictures and collaborated on others. With Gladys he has appeared in many features and shorts.

The Ahearns are natives of Conrad Montana.

Judith Allen, lovely brunette, plays opposite Autry in "Git Along Little Dogies." Such talented two men, both very nice but widely different in personality.

She can't decide which man to marry; Douglas is a man of few words; Young is a super-egotist who thinks he has a way with a woman. Each wages an ardent campaign to capture Claudette.

Much of the action of "I Met Him in Paris" is laid in the Swiss Alps, the best known and most colorful vacation region of the European continent.

K.G.E. Indoor Baseball Standing

At the Tuesday night meeting of the Knights of the Golden Eagle's indoor baseball league the Pilgrims defeated the Crusaders, 15 - 11, 8 - 6, and the Knights, 16 - 9. The Knights defeated the Crusaders, 10 - 8 and the Crusaders defeated the Pilgrims, 14 - 13 in ten innings.

The standings of the league after these games and three games played the preceding week, are as follows:

Club	Batting Averages
	Ab.	H.	Pc.
Pilgrims	189	134	.709
Knights	135	82	.604
Crusaders	195	93	.477

Club	STANDINGS
	W.	L.	Pc.
Pilgrims	5	2	.714
Knights	2	3	.400
Crusaders	1	6	.148

performers as the Maple City Four, Smiley Burnette, Willie Fung, Weldon Hayburn, G. Raymond Nye, and Frankie Marvin appear in supporting roles. The exciting action of the picture is based on the struggle of ranchmen and oil interests. Seven delightful tunes lend melodious enchantment to the vivid thrills.
